The image title must be limited to 35 characters including spaces.

It is important that the guidelines for naming files be followed when submitting images for the monthly competitions.

Challenges

Any club member may challenge a competition entry within three days following that competition. A club member may telephone or send a challenge by email to the Competition Committee Chair or committee member within three days of a competition meeting. Club officers, committee chairs, outside judges, GSCCC or PSA also may challenge a competition entry at any time. A challenge is a request for a review and ruling by the club authorities as to the entry's conformation with the rules and procedures of such an entry.

Authorities in this case shall include club officers, intra club and interclub committee members, and any specific others they may wish to include for technical assistance. They may request a copy of the original RAW, TIFF or JPEG image taken by the camera. Failure to provide a requested original file will automatically disqualify the challenged image. The results of the review will be reported back to the maker within two weeks, after which the maker may accept or appeal their findings in accordance with club competition rules. The identity of challenger(s) will not be disclosed beyond the review authority members.

Posting of Images on Web Site

Digital images posted on the club's website will be credited to its maker and will carry a copyright notice and /or copyright symbol.

All club members are encouraged to embed their copyright information in camera at the time the image is taken. Your camera's Set Up menu may provide this through a Copyright or Image

Comment feature.

JUDGING and SCORING JUDGES

Three judges, usually club members, are appointed by the Intra club Competition Chairman. Judges are normally selected from those members who regularly participate in the monthly competition.

JUDGING

Judging of digital images will be done by projecting images on a screen with an electronic projector and with a laptop PC using a digital slide show program chosen by the club. Background to the image will be black.

SCORING

Our club uses a 27-point scoring system. Each of the three judges awards a score ranging from 1-9 points on each image. The three judges scores are then totaled which gives the image a combined score ranging from 3-27 points. If an image made by one of the judges appears on the screen, that judge immediately disqualifies himself by giving it a score of 0. The remaining two judges' scores are then averaged and this average is used as the score from the disqualified judge.

Titles will be read while the image is being judged, however, the makers name will not be read until after the image has been scored. All scores are recorded for use in End of the Year Award competition.

Points earned in all categories will count toward determining group placement in End of the Year Award competition.

The judge is instructed to score images on these three basic elements: interest, technique and composition. Of the three, interest is the most important and more weight is to be given to interest than to technique or composition.

Interest is that quality which captures the attention of the viewer. It can be achieved through any combination of the following factors:

1. Impact --- Does it immediately “grab” your attention?
2. Appeal --- Does it have something to say?
3. Drama --- Is it dynamic? Does it have character rather than being just a “record shot”?

Technique is concerned with mechanics. It can refer to pure technical perfection in an image or to intended special effects.

1. Sharpness - Is the picture sharp? If it is not sharp, did the photographer intentionally blur or soften for a special effect? Was the effect achieved?
2. Exposure - Is the image underexposed or overexposed? If it is either, was it done for a reason?
3. Presentation - Does the vertical or horizontal format of the picture fit the subject?
4. Cropping - Was the image properly cropped if necessary to remove distracting or uninteresting elements?

Composition is the arrangement of subject matter in an effective or pleasing manner. Good composition literally makes you see what the photographer intends you to see. The following are factors in good composition:

1. Emphasis - Does the picture have one central subject to which all else is subordinate? It may have more than one point of interest, but only one main theme. Simplicity of arrangement is the key.
2. Balance - Do lines and masses pleasantly lead the eye to the subject? Do colors harmonize?
3. Color - Color can be a factor in composition. It can be used to convey a mood or impression, to strengthen the message, or to impress the viewer with a particular sensation.

CRITERIA FOR JUDGING

An image that creates emotion, passion, and a lasting impact is much better than one lacking the former but is technically perfect, well composed and in perfect focus and with great color. Images with impact and emotion that might break the standard technical and compositional rules might be better images than those that meet 100 % of the normal rules. What the image communicates is more important than the image's content or technical aspects. Static and predictable images rarely become contest winners.

Judging, by definition, is a subjective process with a strong emotional component that involves some objective criteria. That is why we use three judges at each competition.

INSTRUCTIONS TO JUDGES

The club uses a 27 point scoring system whereby each of the three judges gives the image a score ranging from 1 to 9. The three scores are added together to get the final score. If one of the judges' images appears on the screen, that judge will enter a score of zero. The scores from the remaining two judges will then be averaged and that average will be used as the third score in determining the final score.
